ATTENTION!

Please note that from October 2012 I publish the Airplay country music chart, instead of the new Hot Country Singles chart, because I dislike the current methodology. The new Hot Country Songs is more crossover-oriented than its predecessor and the songs spend... 500 weeks at number one (Sam Hunt, Florida Georgia Line etc.) which is annoying. I prefer the Airplay chart. Also because Billboard magazine is not published weekly anymore, I use the scanned charts from Billboard Country Update PDF (which is available every Monday).

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WKXP New York City first played Kenny Chesney's "Til It's Gone" on Jan. 12, it was the first time a country station in the nation's largest market had aired a country song that wasn't a local act. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WKXP (which FM 94.7) as its primary outlet, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV. But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with. "The complete Nash branding package is not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus CEO John Dickley says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit together, and I think what you're going to see is the evolution of what's going to be a very strong country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the makeup of WKXP remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on-air produced hosts known as "America's country station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickley promises.

The WKXP playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent country (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "We're the Same").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "Baby Be My Love Song," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2013 but found better on the Year-end chart. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist at WKXP, the station would be a trendsetter, and not simply a placeholder of proven hits.

"They're pretty conservative as charts go, so I wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were going to something really," Cumulus

When WAFB New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "Hill Country People" Jan. 21, it marked the return of country music to terrestrial radio in the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade. And it was a landmark event for the station, not just, but just as important is how it benefits the community. The station, which will adopt WNSH (Nash FM 94.7) as its permanent country music outlet, has been a radio Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, a plan to launch a new country-oriented website, and a new country-oriented planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on the station's impact in other media. The brand of the station is a key factor in the marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend money and what celebrities they might affiliate with. The station's new branding is something that will appear and behave magically on Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey's payroll, the course of time, all of his different ways of thinking, and the way he will be able to see the outline of what's going to be a tapestry over this life group that is going to be significant.

When WKXP New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" on Jan. 21, it marked the return of country music to a major radio market in the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade.

It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WKXP (Dial 94.7) as its primary call letters, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with.

The complete Nash brand package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different parts will come and fit together, and I think what you're going to see is the evolution of what's going to be a big part of the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the makeup of WKXP remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on pre-produced shows known as "America's Country Station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WKXP playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent country (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "Wichita Lincoln").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2014 but found better on the radio and in the charts.

If that was indeed chosen because of research and not just picked from a playlist or one of Cumulus' Dallas stations (Dickey and WKXP were not an addition of another city library), that suggests the station could be a trendsetter, and not simply a placeholder.

"They're pretty conservative as charts go, so I wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were going to do something with it," Dickey

When WKXP New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 21, it kicked off the national rollout of the station's new country music format, which will be the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WKSH (Dial 94.7) as its primary on-air identity, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, Web presence and planned live events and cable TV. But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with. The campaign Nash brand package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit snugly together, and I think what you're going to see is the outline of what's going to be a big picture for the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on pre-produced shows known as "America's Country Station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises. The WKSH playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first-hour rated current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent crossover (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks's "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "We're the Same"). Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2014 but found better on the Year-end chart. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist of proven hits. "They're pretty conservative as charts go, so I wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were going to do something with it," Dickey said.

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WXPX New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 12, it signaled the return of country music to terrestrial radio in the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WNSH (Dial 94.7) as its primary on-air call letters, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's reputation in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with.

The campaign Nash brand package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit together, and I think what you're going to see is the evolution of what's going to be a big story for the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the medium of WNSH remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on pre-produced future hostings as "America's country station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WNSH playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first-hour music corner singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent releases (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "Write This Down").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2014 but found better on the "Heart and Soul" circuit. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not just picked from a playlist or as Cumulus' Dallas stations (Dickey says WNSH was not an adaptation of another city's library), that suggests the station could be a trendsetter, and not simply a placeholder of proven hits.

"They're pretty conservative as a chain, so we wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were just going to do it," Dickey said.

When WXPX New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 21, it wasn't the network's country music format that was the focus, but the station's commitment to the format's largest market, New York City.

It was a big deal in terms of the local market, but just as important, it was a landmark for country music nationally. The station, which will adopt WXPX (radio FM 94.7) as its primary outlet, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's footprint in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what vehicles they might affiliate with.

The complete Nash brand package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit together, and I think what you're going to see is the evolution of what's going to be a significant new country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the makeup of WXPX remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially aimed without live personalities, having instead on pre-produced format known as "America's country station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WXPX playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour of current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") will count current (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "Write This Down").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2014 but found better on the Year-end chart. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist or one of Cumulus' Dallas stations (Dickey said WXPX was not an adaptation of another city's format), that suggests the station could be a trendsetter, and not simply a follower.

"They're pretty conservative as charts go, so I wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but I'd expect them to make sense for them, they're not just going to be a collection of songs," Dickey

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WXPX New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 12, it signaled the network's country music to universal radio in the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WSHH (Nash FM 94.7) as its primary on-air call letters, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV. But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's footprint in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with. The campaign Nash branding package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit nicely together, and I think what you're going to see is the value of what's going to be a synergy serving the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the medium of WSHH remain. No PD or

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WXPX New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 21, it wasn't the network's country music format that was the focus of the move, but rather the station's move to a new format.

It was a big deal in terms of the local market, but just as important, it was a landmark move for the network's country music format.

The station, which will adopt WXPX (FM 94.7) as its primary call letters, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact on other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what vehicles they might affiliate with.

The cumulative Nash branding package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit together, and I think what you're going to see is the evolution of what's going to be a very strong country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the makeup of WXPX remain. No PD or

DICKY

The WXPX player was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with classic country (Dixie Brown, Randy Travis, Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "We're the Same").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2014 but had better on the Year-end chart.

If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist at Cumulus, Dallas stations (Dickey said WXPX was not an adaptation of another city's library), that suggests the station could be a benchmark, and not simply a place of progress.

"They're pretty conservative as charts go, so I wouldn't expect them to be super aggressive, but I wouldn't expect them to be, they just pay on something called 'Greatest

COLLECTION

Arts & Charts

The complete Country Music Charts exactly as they appeared in Billboard magazine from 1944 to the present, in high resolution, taken from the celebrated magazine's pages.

From the owner of COUNTRY MUSIC DATABASE® who has one of the largest collections in the world (with records, videos, magazines, books and comics) comes his latest epic project!

More than 70 years of Country Music Charts from the beginning. The volumes are published in random order (like Marvel's beautiful series "The Epic Collection").
